Astoria Grows Spuds

ASTORIA, Ore., April 21.—That highly prized Jewel—the 1917 potato—will be grown in Astoria a plenty this spring. The Girls' Honor Guard, recently organized, will work a large tract of ground donated by a railroad company. The girls say that they will mind the potato field themselves next summer.

Even This the Movies Do

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 21.—The shaven upper lip, heretofore an undisputed mark of the clergy, the stranger or the "effeminate," is coming into fashion in this city. The barbers attribute the new style to North America and declare the fad is fostered by the American moving picture shows which are monopolizing the playhouses here.
